Tortoises, also known as land turtles, are found on all continents except Antarctica and Australia. Tortoises vary greatly in size, color, and other characteristics, with nearly 50 species spread across more than 15 genera. Many can only be found in the wild, but some are kept as pets. Several species are endangered to some extent, but conservation efforts have helped increase populations in some cases. Tortoises are the world's longest living land animals, with an average lifespan of 80 to 150 years.
