Empowering Marginalized Communities

Hand In Hand Katie Proctor focuses on empowering marginalized communities that often face barriers to education. Through various initiatives, this organization works towards removing these obstacles and providing opportunities for growth and development.

One of the key projects undertaken by Hand In Hand Katie Proctor is the establishment of community schools in underserved areas. These schools not only offer education to children who would otherwise have limited access to schooling, but also act as community centers, providing essential services such as healthcare, clean water, and vocational training opportunities.

Additionally, Hand In Hand Katie Proctor supports scholarships for deserving students who lack the financial means to pursue higher education. By investing in these individuals, the organization aims to nurture future leaders who will contribute to the betterment of their communities.

Innovative Teaching Methods

Hand In Hand Katie Proctor believes in the power of innovative teaching methods to engage students and foster a love for learning. Through the use of technology and interactive teaching approaches, this organization creates dynamic learning environments that inspire students to explore, question, and discover.

Furthermore, Hand In Hand Katie Proctor places a strong emphasis on vocational training programs, equipping students with practical skills that can enhance their employability in the future. By offering courses on entrepreneurship, agriculture, and technology, among others, the organization ensures that students are prepared for the ever-changing demands of the job market.

Collaboration and Sustainability

Hand In Hand Katie Proctor values collaboration and believes in the power of partnerships to create sustainable change. Working closely with local communities, governments, and other stakeholders, the organization strives to develop holistic solutions that address the unique challenges faced by each community.

The goal is not only to provide immediate educational opportunities but also to build capacity within communities, so they can continue to thrive in the long run. Hand In Hand Katie Proctor invests in local leadership and empowers community members to take ownership of education initiatives, ensuring their long-term sustainability.

In the summer of 1945, 11-year-old Lily Wagner’s daddy takes the “Whites Only” sign off the front door of the family grocery store in quiet Mayfield, South Carolina.

Lily's world is turned upside-down: the store is vandalized and she loses her best friend, whose father forbids him from hanging around a—well, the word he uses turns Lily's stomach.

Hazel Jackson loves school and reading more than anything. She doesn't think it's fair that she has to go to work with Ma Maybelle at the white family's house for the summer. But she knows that the rules for an 11-year-old Black girl are different.

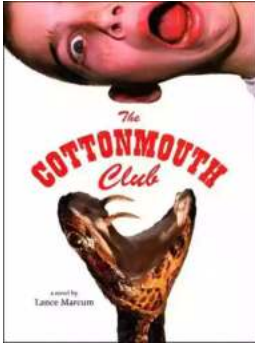

When Lily and Hazel meet, they know they probably can't be friends. But they forge a connection through books that helps them learn about themselves and the world around them, including hard truths of the Jim Crow South.

Fans of The Hundred Dresses by Eleanor Estes and Stella by Starlight by Sharon M. Draper will love the story of Lily and Hazel as they stand up to racism in their small town.
