rebellious short-lived race of bloodline resurgent." A hundred years, for a spirit, is a childhood without worries; for a head of Archdragon, is to travel in gold coins in the sea once resting; for the god chi, it is on the chessboard that the words fall in a blink of an eye; but for Humanity, it is from birth to death reincarnation. One hundred years, for the high demon level of Humanity, is an encouragement to eagerly advance to the criterion; for the inside of the human face, it's arduous to go far; for the dema of the human face, it is far from being able to touch the celestial map; but for the mortal magic of the human plane, it could only exist in the fantasy Garden of Eden. Thus, at the time of death, when humans have the characteristics of killing a child, they can join the "general net" freely and take risks, and that is exactly how exciting the story is. .
